Government

Allegion's security and safety products are used in nearly every type of government building and military installation in the country. In fact, we protect some of the most well-known government institutions, from the United States Capitol building, the White House and the Pentagon, to embassies, courthouses, prisons, military bases, nuclear power plants, and airports and seaports from coast to coast.

Allegion's products include Schlage's AD-Series—the only FIPS 201-1 PIV compliant wireless integrated reader and lock available today.
